Rooted in Ag and Still Growing

Wes was born and raised in Perth South - and if you ask him, there's nowhere else he'd rather be. Growing up, he played sports, worked on the family farm, and cared for his own animals - a responsibility he took on early and still keeps up with today.

"I've always been surrounded by agriculture," he says. "Even when I went off to college, I stayed involved in ag clubs and made some great connections - but I always knew I'd come back."

After spending some time living and working in the city, that feeling only grew stronger. "I never thought I'd move away from Perth County and going to college just confirmed what I already knew," Wes shares.

Wes now runs his business, Sure Seal Eavestrough, in Kirkton and is still active on both the family farm and his own. Wes continues to grow in the rural lifestyle that shaped him. "I know almost everyone around here - it's a close-knit community," he says. "That's what I like about it."

With strong ties to the land and the people of Perth County, Wes is building his future right where it all started.
