A Decade of Cheese and Community

When we last connected with Ramon, his passion for traditional Swiss cheesemaking had found a new home at Stonetown Artisan Cheese - a local gem nestled in the rural beauty of Perth South. Originally from Bonau, Switzerland, Ramon brought both skill and heart to his craft, helping bring the Weber family's dream of an artisan cheese business to life.

In 2024, Ramon stepped into the role of co-owner, and this year marks a major milestone: the 10th anniversary of Stonetown Artisan Cheese. Over the past decade, their handcrafted cheeses have earned top honours at several national and international competitions. "I'm proud to represent our town, our community, and Perth County with our award-winning cheese," he shares.

Ramon and his family feel deeply connected to the region they call home. "It's a beautiful place to raise a family," he says. "I love the small-town vibe combined with the vast rural landscapes. If we need a taste of city life, London's just around the corner - it's the perfect spot."

As Stonetown celebrates a decade of success, Ramon continues to craft exceptional cheese with pride - and a deep appreciation for the community that has embraced him and his work.
